

The Blenheim Covered Bridge

The OLD BLENHEIM COVERED BRIDGE is a wooden covered bridge spanning Schoharie Creek in North Blenheim, New York. With an open span of 210 feet, it was the longest span of any surviving single-span, two lane, covered bridge in the world. The bridge opened in 1855 and was one of the oldest of its type in the United States.

Nicholas Montgomery Powers was brought in from Vermont to build the bridge by a group of local businessmen. The bridge opened in 1855 and remained in use for vehicles until 1932 when a steel truss bridge was constructed near-by. Since that time, the bridge was maintained as an historic site open to pedestrians. It was declared a National Historic Landmark in 1964.

On August 28, 2011, record flooding along the Schoharie Creek, due to Tropical Storm Irene, resulted in the destruction of the bridge.

Remnants of the original bridge have been recovered and are in storage. FEMA has approved complete replacement of the Blenheim Covered Bridge.

The residents and visitors to the area can witness the replacement Blenheim Covered Bridge under construction and scheduled for completion in mid-2018.

Your purchase of a Blenheim Bridge t-shirt or Bridge Note Cards will contribute to a fund to assist with reconstruction of the bridge park area.
